Hello!

I have enjoyed being able to have the freedom to share about God in a Christian school this year. Last year, I taught in a public school, and I felt very limited in how much of Christ I could share with my students. Having God as the center of my life has created the desire to share Him with others and to encourage others to know and love him. As a music teacher, I was sometimes about to include songs about God that were in the curriculum, but I had to be very careful. Now that I have the opportunity to teach in a Christian school, I feel thankful that I can, freely.

God has allowed me to grow up in a family where education is greatly respected and patient parents who do not push from the outside, but who encourage inward motivation.

I think that my desire to be a life-long learner comes largely from my home life. I enjoy organizing, reading, and paying attention to details. I greatly value education, and my desire to make a difference motivates me to teach.
