Hello!

I had been praying to God to use me in any way he wants. A number of years ago, I quit my nursing job at Stanford hospital because things were getting very stressful. I started doing volunteer work at Chinese Christian Schools and then an opportunity opened up for me to work here.

My duties include taking care of sick/injured students and staff; teaching CPR classes to 11th graders; recertifying all the staff for CPR skills; making referrals for students with any learning disabilities; updating all health/immunization records; coordinating all health-related events, such as vision testing, dental testing, and puberty sessions.

I am glad that I have the opportunity to talk to some of the students when they are upset and have a need. It is rewarding to be able to listen to them, to comfort them, and to see them feel better afterwards.
