Hello!

In college, I felt God's leading into some type of full-time Christian service. It was not a calling to the pastorate or mission field, but to serve.

My greatest gift is the ability to take complex problems or situations and make them simple. I was in college when Ronald Reagan was often criticized for always offering "simplistic answers." He answered that "most of life's answers are simple; it's having the courage to do it that's hard." That philosophy resonated with me, because I was often criticized for the same thing. I believed God teaches that his entire Word can be compressed into just a few key commandments and principles.

I am an optimist and believe the best in others. This gives me patience in working with them and also confidence to see opportunity where others see obstacles. I am a visionary that loves to think and dream big.
